

WASHINGTON — WPA chiefs have told the President that three billion dollars will be necessary to meet relief needs during the next fiscal year beginning July 1—almost double the $1,750,000,000 expended for relief this year. At present, WPA is spending $155,000,000 a month to take care of 2,500,000 jobless, and this, according to the private report of WPA executives to the President, is far short of urgent requirements.

In support of this they cited these significant facts: That for the first time in its history, WPA is furnishing work-relief in rural areas; that employment, instead of turning upward as usual in March, took another precipitous nose dive.

According to WPA figures, 90,000 were added to the idle army last month, making a total of 4,000,000 grown out of work since September, 1937, when the recession started. WPA experts estimate that the country now has between twelve and fifteen million wholly unemployed.

In addition, there will be an added demand for relief due to the exhaustion of unemployment insurance funds.

As a result of all this, the President definitely has decided on two things: (1) to boost the $1,000,000,000 relief budget he recommended in his January message, and (2) to ask repeal of the Woodrum Amendment requiring WPA to allocate its funds on a 12-month basis.

Elimination of the Woodrum restriction would give WPA a free hand in spending its money as needed, more one month and less another.

The big relief question still being deliberated by the President is how far above $1,000,000,000 he should go in asking for more money. WPA officials are strongly urging an initial budget of not less than $1,500,000,000, though preferably $2,000,000,000. They want to boost the present monthly relief outlay to around $200,000,000 a month and care for a relief roll of not less than 2,800,000.

OHIO HIGH COURT DISMISSES APPEAL OF MRS. ANNA HAHN

Columbus, Ohio, April 13—(AP)—The Ohio supreme court today dismissed the appeal of Anna Marie Hahn, convicted Cincinnati poison slayer, and sentenced her to die in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair May 4.

Mrs. Hahn had been scheduled to die March 10, but her appeal to the supreme court automatically stayed the electrocution date.

The blonde, 31-year-old mother was convicted of fatally poisoning Jacob Wagner.

She also is under indictment on a charge of murder-by-poison in the death of George Gsellman, 67-year-old Cincinnati German.

Principal point of a 10-point appeal made by Mrs. Hahn's attorneys was that trial Judge Charles Bell erred in permitting Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt to introduce evidence pertaining to deaths of others among her aged men acquaintances.

Outcalt maintained the evidence was necessary to show she benefited from the men's estates.

TO RECOMMEND HOUSE ADD TO BIG ROAD FUND

Washington, April 13—(AP)—A House appropriations committee member said today the budget bureau probably would recommend that the House add $92,000,000 to the $100,000,000 road fund carried in the pending agricultural department supply bill.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the appropriations sub-committee which prepared the measure, said that D. W. Bell, budget bureau director, "is studying the increase and we hope will approve the increase before we pass this bill."

Election year demands for continued heavy federal road aid brought the appropriations committee together today to reconsider previous recommendations made in the light of President Roosevelt's desire to slash highway funds.

CREWS DEFEATED

Fairfield, Ill., April 13—(AP)—Miss Crews, vice president of the Republican county chairmen's organization of Illinois, was defeated for precinct committeeman by Francis Feiger, 23-year-old attorney. The vote was 195 to 168.

Crews also was president of the fourth Appellate Court district Republican county chairmen's organization.

HORNER AGAIN VICTOR OVER CHICAGO FOES

LUCAS' WIN IS BLOW TO KELLY-NASH

Late Returns Widen Lead Over Michael L. Igoe

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—Governor Horner's second smashing victory in two years over the Kelly-Nash Chicago Democratic organization appeared sealed today as late returns gradually widened Scott W. Lucas' lead over Michael L. Igoe for the party nomination for U. S. Senator.

Lucas, 46-year-old congressman from Havana, backed by the governor, led by 28,036 votes with 988 of the state's 8,286 precincts still unreported. But 700 of these precincts were downstate, where Igoe, Chicago federal district attorney backed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman P. A. Nash, trailed from the start.

Igoe was ahead in only one downstate county, and while he led Lucas by 171,394 in Cook county, his possible margin in the unreported Cook county precincts appeared insufficient to overcome the Horner entry.

Returns on the other five state offices involved in yesterday's statewide primaries were slower. The Kelly-Nash candidates led by narrow margins.

Richard J. Lyons, 42-year-old state representative of Libertyville, breezed to an easy victory in the Republican senatorial primary on the crest of endorsements by the state party organizations.

Personal Triumph
Lucas' indicated victory was a personal triumph for Governor Horner, who campaigned the state for his state ticket. His first conquest of the potent Chicago machine came in 1936, when the 58-year-old bachelor-governor won re-nomination against Kelly-Nash opposition.

Then, as in this campaign, Horner centered his fire on the Chicago "bosses" whom he charged were attempting to "seize control of the state house." The two-term chief executive demonstrated skill in rough and tumble campaign debate that belied his first schooling in politics as Chicago probate judge for 18 years.

"Smash the machine" was a favorite phrase of Horner and Lucas. Making the Horner success more complete, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Cook county judge for 16 years, appeared to have won re-nomination over Circuit Judge John Prystalski, Kelly-Nash candidate.

Lucas is completing his second term at Washington as congressman from the district represented by the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey until his death. He is a former star college athlete and professional baseball player.

Both Democratic factions vowed support of the Roosevelt administration. But the result placed Gov-

Show Goes On

New York, April 13—(AP)—Strike or no strike, "The Greatest Show on Earth" must go on—and it did.

There were no peanuts nor popcorn at last night's performance in Madison Square gardens, cogs in the smooth-running machine of the modern Garden as several hundred at-circus, quit the sawdust for the picket line, but tradition was preserved.

John Ringling North, 34-year-old "boss" of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum Bailey circus, tugged at ropes and guy wires, a circus lawyer pushed seal wagons, clowns fetched and carried, and the eight-foot "Texas Giant" helped push the ten-ton cage wagon of Gargantua, the gorilla.

The strikers, members of the American Federation of Actors (A. F. of L.), walked out in a wage dispute a few minutes before the night performance was scheduled to start.

JARECKI SURE OF NOMINATION FOR POSITION

Only Cook County Candidate Supported By Governor

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki appeared virtually assured today of Democratic renomination to the judicial office he has held 16 years.

Jarecki was the only candidate for Cook county office actively supported by Governor Horner. Circuit Judge John Prystalski was the candidate of the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization.

Jarecki's lead increased in late returns today.

With 4,042 of Cook county's 4,377 precincts tabulated, Jarecki had 471,694 and Prystalski 438,383.

The judgeship was an office over which the Democratic factions waged equally as heated a battle as they did over the U. S. Senatorship.

Jarecki contended he was "dumped" by the Chicago organization for severe penalties against election law violators. Prystalski charged Judge Jarecki's supervision of election machinery and tax matters had been "inefficient."

Governor Horner and State Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, joining in the campaign for Jarecki, charged the Kelly-Nash leadership with an attempted "raid on the ballot box."

AWARD FELLOWSHIP

Pittsburgh, April 13—(AP)—The honor society of Phi Kappa Phi announced today it had awarded four fellowships, each valued at $500, for graduate study in 1938-39.

Dr. Lawrence R. Guild, head of the department of management engineering at Carnegie Institute of Technology and secretary-treasurer of the society, said one of the fellowships had been awarded to Miss Charlotte Hughes Johnston of 603 S. Lincoln Ave., Urbana, Ill., a student at the University of Illinois.

PROFITS TAX ROOSEVELT'S PET PROJECT

Meets Resistance From Senate Finance Group

Washington, April 13—(AP)—President Roosevelt urged Congress today to retain the principle of the bitterly-disputed undistributed profits tax, but met stubborn resistance from the Senate finance committee.

Attacking provisions of the Senate tax bill which would eliminate the undistributed profits tax imposed by business and substitute a flat capital gains tax for the graduated system now employed, Mr. Roosevelt wrote chairmen of the Senate finance and House ways and means committees:

"The repeal of the undistributed profits tax and the reduction of the tax on capital gains to a fraction of the tax on other forms of income strike at the root of fundamental principles of taxation.

"Business will be helped, not hurt, by these suggestions."

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the finance committee, gave out the communication and commented tersely:

"The Senate conferees will insist in conference on the amendments adopted by the Senate."

The veteran Mississippi personally had led the Senate fight for changes opposed by the President.

The Senate amendments to the five billion dollar tax revision bill, on which Senate and House conferees are attempting to work out a compromise, include repeal of the undistributed profits tax.

For that tax, the Senate would substitute a flat 18 per cent levy on corporate income. The House bill provided for maximum rates of 16 to 40 per cent on long term capital gains; the Senate substituted a flat 15 per cent tax.

Delivered to Capitol
The letter, which reviewed reasons the President originally recommended an undistributed profits levy in 1936, was delivered at the Capitol while the conferees were meeting for the first time.

Harrison said he was sure the desire of the conferees, both of the Senate and House, "is to work out a bill which will offer encouragement to business."

"I believe," he asserted, "that the repealing of the undistributed profits tax and the modification of the capital gains tax, such as adopted by the Senate, will help business."

"Modifications shown by experience to be desirable, in particular the exemption of small corporations, should be made, but the principle of the tax is sound, and it should be retained in our tax system," Mr. Roosevelt added.

"Otherwise we grant a definite incentive to the avoidance of personal income tax payments through methods which are legal, but which are contrary to the spirit of the principle that every citizen should pay taxes in accordance with his means."

"It would be particularly undesirable to eliminate the undistributed profits tax at this time, in favor of a flat rate of tax, represent an increase (increase) was underscored in the tax burden on many small corporations, and on all corporations which follow established American practices of dividend distribution; and a decrease (again underscored) in the tax burden of many large corporations, which have hoarded their earnings in the past, and would be encouraged to resume the practice in the future."

Freight And Shop Train Crash Blamed On Bad Operating

Washington, April 13—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today blamed improper operating practices for a collision between a shop train and a freight train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at West Burlington, Iowa.

Five employees of the railroad were killed and 33 others were injured in the accident.

"The commission said the collision, which occurred February 26, was caused by failure of the shop train to provide flag protection within yard limits, and by the freight train not being operated under control within yard limits."

"It is evident that there has been a lack of proper supervision of operating practices in this territory, and it is recommended that operating officials immediately take such steps as may be necessary to provide for safe operation within yard limits," the commission said.

Nab Two Men for Robbery Attempt

Iowa City, April 13—(AP)—Iowa City police captured two Illinois men here this morning in connection with an attempted robbery of a Standard Oil bulk station here.

The men, who police said were Philip S. Reynolds, 25, of Galesburg, Ill., and Oren Bennett, 44, of Farmington, Ill., were being held for questioning in regard to other bulk station robberies in the state.

Reynolds, police said, admitted the robbery of a bulk station in Waterloo March 29. Both men denied participation in a Davenport bulk station robbery March 28.

Reynolds was taken into custody after he waged a terrific battle with Frank Spooner, agent of the local station, and Larry Delaney, his assistant.

Nazi Demonstration Causes Sensation In Danish Parliament

Copenhagen, April 13—(AP)—A pistol shot aimed at the ceiling signaled the release of a shower of Nazi leaflets on the heads of members of parliament today as they debated a new immigration bill.

Erik Westergaard, 23, Danish Nazi from Bovrup, North Schleswig, fired the shot during an address by Minister of Justice M. Steincke. He was arrested.

Westergaard, in Nazi uniform and wearing swastika badges, peered leaflets headed "high treason" from the public gallery as a demonstration against parliamentarism.

Fritz Clausen, Danish Nazi leader, had ordered the leaflets two days ago.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The story so far: Loving another man, Judith Goodloe marries an outsider, Reuben Oliver, for his money, only to discover that his fortune is lost. But Reuben has made a settlement on her family, so she sticks to her bargain and accompanies him to a dismal mining town. Twins are born, and Reuben loses his job. At the lowest moment in walks wealthy, red-headed Cissy Rogers. She wants the same thing she has always wanted—Reuben.

CHAPTER 25 Cissy Works Fast

They sat down on the low wooden steps that led to the kitchen. Reuben offered Cissy a cigarette, lighted it. "Lit one for yourself. Talk, Cissy. How's Clem?"

"Dad's in Europe. He misses you, Rube."

"I miss him."

"He thought you were a fool to come here in the first place. A worse one to stick."

"When he hears I can't even stick."

The strip of back yard with its dingy board fence swayed crazily. "Do you mean—you and—Judith?"

He avoided her eyes. "I've lost my job!"

The back yard straightened itself. "There're other jobs. How hard have you looked?"

Why try to tell her of the endless miles of walking, of the stacks of letters he had written, of the advertisements he had answered? "I've looked too hard."

"Perhaps that's why."

"Necessity makes beggars of us."

"It never made one of you before." Through a cloud of grey smoke she studied his harassed expression. Could this be her eagle? "You're not the type to beg, Rube. You must challenge."

"That day is over."

In the excitement caused by Cissy's arrival Judith forgot about the letter to Gran until she was in bed. She was too tired to get up.

Early in the morning when she slipped down to draw a light cover over the sleeping twins, Judith found each fast little fist tightly closed over a crisp $20 bill.

Humiliation stung her. Cissy knew their dire need. Cissy had eaten the stew with its sparse pieces of meat! She dared—

Then as she gently unfasted little fingers came sheer relief. Eighty dollars! Until this money was spent she would not have to write to Gran!

"I found the money, Cissy," Judith greeted her guest when she came striding into the kitchen.

"In Chinese palamas of palest blue embroidered in gay butterflies, Cissy walked to the sink and turned on the water. "Is there any reason why I should not give Rube's kids a present?"

"There wouldn't be if we didn't need money so badly."

"She has grit!" Cissy thought, grudgingly. "Use the money and pay the youngsters back with interest when they're 21."

"That's what I intend to do. I wanted you to know."

Cissy's coming made a difference in the little house. She knew, with keen satisfaction, that she put Judith at a disadvantage. The way Cissy could take hold, do housework, cook, clean—make it all appear astonishingly easy—was nothing less than a miracle. The savory dishes she could concoct out of a mere nothing.

"Cissy Loves Reuben"

The effect of the new routine, or rather of Cissy, upon Reuben was amazing. She put new hope into him. Despondency dropped gradually from him like a garment wearing threadbare in spots. He spoke cheerfully: "When I get my job—" or "Soon now I'll land something good!"

At night, when she put the chilaren to bed, Judith left her husband and their guest playing checkers at the kitchen table, or talking about airplanes, lumber and whatnot.

"He should have married her," Judith thought with a curious detachment. "They speak the same language. Learned about life in the same school. Certainly she loved him the day his horse threw him—"

The day his horse threw him! A dull pin scratched across the surface of Judith's heart. But for a fluke chance Cissy would have married Reuben, eventually. She would never have come to Goodloe's Choice. Never have gone, colorful and gay as a hummingbird, through the dim old garden taking Gary with her. Useless to remind herself that Gary hadn't loved her, that she would still be waiting—useless. Cissy had flown away with Gary, then—not because she loved him, but to show her power. Cissy had been the serpent to enter Judith's Eden, then. Now—

Involuntarily her arm tightened around her sleeping children. This was her world and Reuben's. They must keep it revolving, keep it safe! Reuben was here—whether she loved him or not—he was hers. "Cissy loves Reuben!" It buzzed in Cissy's always beautiful and groomed, jeweled—lighted the drab little house as a high powered electric bulb lights a cavern. She flattered Reuben. Hung on his every word. Catered to his every whim. Cissy was never cross, tired, untidy—

"Whatever started me on such a crazy line of thought? Cissy has no place in my life now, no place in Reuben's life."

Each night, undressing in a small, sloperooed front bedroom, Cissy promised herself: "I'll go tomorrow." When tomorrow came: "It's so hot today—I'll go tomorrow."

She had moments when she despised herself. Moments of self justification too. "I've done him good—if he had never seen her—She doesn't love him—Her children fill her life—if I had a chance—"

And then an idea popped into Cissy's head like a flower in full bloom—a flower so heady it made her dizzy. She did have a chance—a slim one maybe but worth trying. Stupid not to have thought of it before. If Gary still held the old fascination—if it worked out—

The following morning she went downstairs garbed for departure. "It's been glorious, darling! I can hardly tear myself away."

"Why do it?" Reuben hated to see her go. Hated to go back to the old hopelessness, the old lapses into silence and apology. "Stay until tomorrow anyhow."

"Can't! I was due at the Curtis ranch weeks ago."

"Where is that?" Judith asked idly.

"Just about four hours ride up the Sierras," Cissy informed her and added casually, "It's only 20 miles from one of the Galbreath camps!"

Judith caught her breath. The Galbreath camps—

"There might be work for you there, Rube," Cissy said. "You know lumber."

"A liability," Reuben said bitterly. "They took on a lot of green hands last month but turned me down."

"That was last month," Cissy outlined her lips with geranium red. "I'll nose in as I pass along and report to you."

From the water pipe gate they waved her down the narrow street. "Emeralds Again!"

Judith found the money under the comb tray—$100! Judith recoiled from it as from a serpent. It seemed her lot to be humiliated by Cissy! Cissy high-handedly leaving money under a tray as one leaves a tip for a maid! She hated Cissy—hated her, but most of all she hated Reuben! It was his fault. He had brought her to this pass!

In mid-afternoon the telegram came. Reuben read it incredulously. Reread it. From the foot of the ladder-like stairs he shouted: "Judy—come running! Here's news!"

He couldn't wait until she came down to him. His voice boomed up to her. He read: "Report immediately to Forest Base Number 2 (Signed) Galbreath, Inc."

"That means a job, Judy! Can you take it in?"

She thought: "Cissy works fast." With a light-heartedness that had not been his since the day Lottie Justis failed, he swept her into his arms.

"You'll be wearing your emeralds again before you know it, Judy! Gosh! If you knew what it means to have a chance to work again!"

Deliberately he refused to remember that Gary Brent would be his boss; that he would almost rather starve than work for him. If it wasn't for Judy and the kids—

"I've hated all this," his gesture included the whole of Fordney's Gulch, "for you, Judy. You've been a brick—" He released her suddenly remembering. "I'll have to hustle around and raise cash somehow. It's not going to be easy."

He rumbled his hair worriedly and looked so ludicrously like Judykin when she was getting ready to cry that the words were drawn

"Good old Cissy," gratefully, "she thinks of everything."

"She thinks of too much. I hadn't meant to tell you. Meant to send it right back—"

"We've got to take it Judy. Don't feel so badly over it. Cissy doesn't feel about that sort of thing as you do. Back in Warder we used to pool our resources in an old tin can on a shelf back of the kitchen stove. Everyone put in or took out according to his needs and no questions asked."

Whistling he dashed upstairs, got his pigskin bag from under the bed and started to throw his things in to it. Years fell from him. The somberness left his eyes, a twinkle usurped its place. He reminded Judith of a small boy preparing for his first circus.

And then he was kissing the children goodby, kissing her, promising to write—He was going to work—going to the woods—to tall trees, leaping streams—

A rattle, a wheeze, the tetch of motor exhaust, a cloud of dust—Reuben was gone—

Day by Day Lessons for Reading During Lenten Season

WEDNESDAY BEFORE EASTER.
Read St. Luke 22

And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat; but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.—From the Gospel for the Day.

From very early times this Wednesday has been thought of as the day of the Betrayal. But the Gospel for today lays stress on the fact that Judas was not the only traitor. And it shows us why.

Even in the hour of deepest intimacy with their Lord, the disciples contend which of them shall be the greatest; which shall take the place of honor at table.

"I am among you as he that serveth," is His answer. He gives the lesson, though He knows they cannot yet receive it; but they will remember later. "I appoint unto you a kingdom," He says; but it is a kingdom in which He reigns who serves.

"I made supplication for thee," Think what it is to be never absent from the mind of Jesus. He awaits. He watches; He turns His searching glance upon us even while we are seeking our own comfort by the fire. Though we betray Him, He will never give us up.

He died that Love might live for evermore.
And find in Him its ever-open door.

QUIET PRIMARY IN CHICAGO; NO VIOLENCE NOTED

Chicago, April 13.—(AP)—Chicago passed its primary without anticipated amount of violence.

"Everybody expected trouble," Wilbert Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said when the polls closed, "but we were surprised. It was one of the quietest primaries in history."

The only major incident of violence during the day was the slaying of Babe Perry, 34-year-old Negro, who was shot by another Negro after an election argument before the polls opened. Capt. John W. Norton identified the slayer as Clarence Smith, who was appointed two weeks ago as a deputy municipal court bailiff.

Few sluggings were reported. Several precincts reported clashes between Chicago police and the special force recruited by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney to suppress the detail taken from him. Only a few of those arrested were booked.

Edward Romanek, 37, who said he was a precinct captain for the Horner forces, reported to police last night he was slugged by two men who accosted him while he was leaving a polling place. Earlier in the evening bricks were thrown through three windows of Romanek's home.

AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS NOT QUITE SO GOOD

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

Chicago, April 13.—Agricultural prospects, reckoned in dollars and cents, do not appear as bright this spring as they did a year ago, government reports disclosed today.

It was indicated 1938 farm cash income would be around a billion dollars short of the eight and one-half billion which went to farmers in 1937.

The general trend of prices paid for farm products has been downward since last spring, although the bureau of agricultural economics announced that demand for such commodities has become relatively stable in recent weeks compared with the sharp decline during the last four months of last year.

Irregular improvement in industrial conditions during 1938 is expected, the bureau announced, but it was not regarded likely it would be sufficient to cause a material increase in demand for farm products.

Cash income from sales of farm products, the bureau said, may be about three billion dollars during the first six months of this year as compared with three and one-half billion during the same period last year. If this ratio is maintained for the second half of the year the loss in cash income would exceed a billion dollars.

REGISTRATION LAW CHANGES RECOMMENDED

Chicago, April 13.—(AP)—Changes in the new permanent registration law were suggested by the Chicago board of election commissioners today after the first test of the system in yesterday's primary.

Alexander J. McKay, chairman of the board, said the law was fundamentally sound and applicable to voting in Chicago, but needs modification which he and a committee appointed by Governor Horner will propose to the legislature after public hearings.

Physical limitations of the master file rooms hindered work this year, McKay said. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki assailed the Kelly-Nash organization for what he said was wasting two days of the board's time by demanding checks of numerous lists of names.

Six types of voters among the 1,786,680 registered were properly denied ballots yesterday, McKay said.

They were those reported by the postoffice as not living at addresses they registered from; those who failed to prove citizenship; those who did not answer sworn charges against them; residents of hotels and lodging houses that did not report their residence; those unregistered under the new law, and those who moved after registering who did not notify the board of the transfer.

AAA ANNOUNCES ALLOTMENTS OF WHEAT ACREAGE

To Serve As Basis For Payments To Growers From Soil Fund

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—The agricultural adjustment administration announced state wheat acreage allotments today under the 1938 farm program.

The allotments will serve as the basis for payments to wheat growers from the $500,000,000 soil conservation fund Congress is authorized to appropriate.

The national allotment, established in the new farm act, is 62,500,000 acres. It compares with an average of 70,868,920 acres seeded to wheat and diverted from the grain in the 1928-37 period.

The largest state allotment, 12,519,879 acres, went to Kansas, the nation's top-ranking wheat state.

The state allotments will be broken down among counties and individual farmers under a formula set up in the farm act. Growers who planted within their allotments will be eligible for benefit payments at the rate of 12 cents a bushel on the normal production of the allotment.

If growers overplant, they will be subject to deductions from such payments at the rate of 96 cents a bushel production of the excess acreage, unless they make a corresponding reduction in acreage of other soil-depleting crops.

State allotments announced by the department included: Illinois 2,030,511; Indiana 1,689,970; Iowa 456,034; Kentucky 382,542; Missouri 1,938,358; Wisconsin 108,001.

RETURN OF STATE AGENT IN BRATTEN CASE IS AWAITED

Marion, Ill., April 13.—(AP)—Sheriff Zollie Carter and other officials today awaited the return of Frank Figueira of the state bureau of criminal identification before reopening questioning in the killing of Arno Bratten, 58 year old former educator.

Investigators have opined blackmail or revenge was the motive for the slaying of Bratten, whose emaciated body was found in a small creek east of here a week ago today.

Figueira was expected to return tomorrow. He said he believed revenge was the motive, pointing to the brutality of the killing. He said he believed Bratten was slain while sitting in the front seat of his car, by someone who reached over from the back seat and slashed his throat.

Assistant State's Attorney J. H. Clayton has leaned toward the blackmail motive, pointing out that Bratten withdrew $350 from a Carbondale bank last Feb. 14, the day he disappeared.

Abraham Lincoln called his cabinet members into session on Sept. 22, 1862, for the purpose of reading the important paper now known as the Emancipation Proclamation, but first he read them two chapters from the humorous writings of Artemus Ward.

Of all the states of the Union, Pennsylvania has the most cities exceeding a population of 5000.

SENATE VOTES TO GIVE POWER TO DALADIER

Paris, April 13.—The Senate today voted by 288 to 1 to give Premier Edouard Daladier's "national defense" cabinet powers to govern France by decree until July 31. The Chamber of Deputies previously had approved the decree powers bill.

Senate approval completed parliamentary action on the measure clothing the new premier with unusual powers to cope with the republic's acute financial and labor problems.

Daladier turned immediately to fight the strike movement as his first step toward putting France's house in order.

With publication of parliament's action in the official Gazette tomorrow Daladier automatically will begin governing by decree of the council of ministers, the cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun.

Daladier, determined to end "political strikes," told the finance committee one of his first decrees would make a government-controlled vote of workers necessary before a strike could be declared.

Government investigators found that in at least one factory involved in the current strike wave pickets not employed by the plant had engineered the walkout.

Ford Back At Work After Observance Of Golden Wedding

Detroit, April 13.—(AP)—Common Citizen Henry Ford—never the man to go in much for the festive life—slipped back into his accustomed work routine today as casually as if golden wedding anniversaries were an ordinary occurrence.

While engaged with his laboratory problems, chiefly concerning a new tractor, the 74-year-old industrial leader must have felt secure, however, in the knowledge that Dearborn is very proud of him.

Seven hundred friends and fellow citizens, with songs and story, climaxed last night in Ford's "Independence Hall" of his early American village a two-day testimonial to the famous manufacturer, wishing him and his wife, Clara, another 50 years together.

GREAT RACE SIGNED

New York, April 13.—(AP)—The $100,000 match race between Sam Riddle's War Admiral, champion three-year-old of 1937, and Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, speediest of the older horses, definitely is on.

Barring a few minor angles, which probably won't cause any trouble, the race will be run at Belmont Park on Memorial Day, May 30.

HOUSE IS UNPURCHASABLE

The House of Representatives defeated the Roosevelt reorganization bill and demonstrated that it is unpurchasable.

When the Senate passed the bill by a margin not comfortably great for the administration, the president announced at Warm Springs that the Senate was not purchasable, intimating that those members who voted against the bill had been purchased.

As pointed out by Representative Hoffman, it is a mere coincidence when a member who has been against the measure changes to support it about the same time his city is given 3 million dollars for a housing project.

Regardless of the intimations of the president, the country is aware of how and by whom the purchasing has been done, but much of the country has been in favor of the purchases, because they, through their representatives, got the money, even though it was their own credit that was being cashed.

Imagine a man talking about congressional votes being purchased by any one who has to bid against the United States treasury!

That remark was pure demagoguery, an affront to the senators who could not be purchased by allotments and were not victims of "coincidences" mentioned by Hoffman. We had some peculiar coincidences in Illinois when the court bill was pending.

Worst of all is the fact that the government needs reorganization on an economy basis, that Mr. Roosevelt had an opportunity to bring it about, and that in his greed for more and more power to himself, he muffed another chance to do something in a sound and sensible manner.

There is a vast amount of duplication in the government agencies, which should be eliminated. There are many consolidations that can be made with a saving to the government. Mr. Roosevelt's predecessors have worked along that line. Senator Byrd of Virginia headed a subcommittee that worked along that line. Senator Byrd undertook to force a remodeling of the Roosevelt bill so that it would bring about a saving in cost of government, but his proposal was rejected.

Mr. Hoover accomplished the first step. He obtained the consent of Congress to reorganize the "executive" departments, the departments directly responsible to the president, and that was all he asked. The Congress provided in the legislation that the changes must come back to it for ratification.

How many of us remember what happened? The plan was formulated and was submitted to the Congress for approval. Democrats came into control and they laid the measure aside so they could do the reforming. It was a well-laid plan that Mr. Roosevelt should get the credit for the measure of economy that was to be put through. Mr. Hoover should have none of it.

By the rules of politics that was well enough. If the Democrats wanted the credit for the saving of 25 per cent in the cost of government, which they solemnly promised the people in 1932, by rules of the game, it was their prize.

When the time came to bring about these reforms, Mr. Roosevelt was so busy evolving new schemes for the spending of billions of dollars that he had no time during the next five years, until after a second election, to bring about the reforms long needed, and almost accomplished when he came over the threshold.

The reforms that Mr. Roosevelt's planners proposed were not the simple bits of reconstruction proposed by Mr. Hoover for economy and efficiency. Economy was hooted down by the administration—greater power for the president was the issue. He was to have the power to abandon bureaus, to abandon independent agencies, to abandon anybody he didn't like.

It is true that, taking a lesson from the defeat in the court issue, the administration granted one compromise after another, taking out of the plan one agency and then another.

The one phase that remained, the truly Rooseveltian phase, was the abandonment of the office of comptroller general, which the Congress created in 1921, to see that money appropriated for a specific purpose by the Congress should be spent for that purpose, and no other.

There has been but one comptroller general. He was appointed for fifteen years and was not eligible for reappointment, these provisions having been made to render him independent of the presidents and the spending agencies. He proved a thorn in the side of the spending agencies through the fifteen years he served, and was particularly so during the first four years of Roosevelt. When the term of Comptroller McCarl expired, Roosevelt failed to appoint a successor. The new Roosevelt plan abandoned the office, and provided only for an audit after the illegal expenditure had been made.

That was the spirit of the Roosevelt reorganization bill, to destroy any curb on the power of the president to spend as he pleased, and to add to the power of the president over the official lives of all government employees in the departments and bureaus.

It ought to be clear that power over official lives of these persons would augment the power of the president over their sponsors, their uncles, their cousin, their brothers-in-law in Congress.

The president had a great opportunity. He bungled again.

Representative Leo Allen voted to kill the bill. After all, a person has to live with himself when this age of crazy government is ended.

AN INNOCENT ABROAD

John G. Honeycombe of Los Angeles, U. S. A., said to have been a worker in the communist party while here, has turned up in France as a refugee from the rebel forces advancing northeast in Spain. Mr. Honeycombe, for some reason as yet unexplained, felt that the loyalist government in Spain needed his services as a soldier, so he joined the Spanish army. Judging by the interview he gave the Associated Press, Mr. Honeycombe regrets that day.

We wonder about Mr. Honeycombe's citizenship status. Is he now a Spaniard, having served Spain, or is he an American?

Some of the things Honeycombe reported are astonishing. We once read press reports that the Italians had 20,000 of their nationals fighting the Spanish government, and that the Germans had 10,000. But Mr. Honeycombe reports that there were 9000 Americans in the Spanish government army. If we were amazed at the large numbers of Italians and Germans in Spain, and considered such troop concentrations as open intervention or invasion, what are we to say about the presence there of 9000 citizens of the United States? Some intervention, however unrighteous it may be, might be expected from Germany and Italy in Spain because it is a war of ideologies. But in the United States we are neither communist, like the Spanish government, nor fascist, like the Italians and Germans.

In the United States we have seen university students and members of church groups vowing they never would take up arms in any war for any purpose, and such restraint is understandable. They dislike the thought of being shot, or they are averse to shooting someone else. Persons with a middle-of-the-road tendency find it hard to sympathize with extreme pacifism. But it is even harder to understand the attitude of an American who would leave his wife and child, as Honeycombe did, and travel all the way to Spain looking for trouble.

Our average war veteran would fight again for his own country, if necessary, to save it. But for some other country? Ask one and see.

HAWKS BEAT TORONTO, WIN STANLEY CUP

Steward Becomes Miracle Man of Pro Sports

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—Flery Bill Steward, a chunky little man of sawed-off proportions, took his place today along with the late George Stallings as one of the miracle men of professional sports.

In his first year as manager of the amazing Chicago Blackhawks Steward led his team to a sensational 4 to 1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the Chicago Stadium last night to win the coveted Stanley Cup, emblematic of the hockey championship of the world before 17,205 spectators. It was the second time that the Blackhawks had won the championship. They captured it first in 1934.

The victory of the Blackhawks climaxed one of the outstanding comebacks in athletic history. It takes rank with the performance of the Boston Braves, who, under the leadership of Stallings in 1914, swept from last place in mid-July to the National League baseball championship and then went on to conquer Connie Mack's Athletics in four straight games to win the world series.

The Blackhawks did about the same thing as the famous Boston club. Winner of only 14 of 48 league games, they swept through the playoff series with indomitable spirit to conquer the league championship team, Toronto, in three out of four games. In the regular season they managed to beat Toronto only once in six games.

Richmond, Va.—It looks like Earl Bunker will catch the opening game of the season for the Philadelphia Athletics.

Lexington, N. C.—The Phillies have been showing a lack of punch, but as long as the hits come at opportune moments and the Phils keep on winning it's okay with Manager Jimmy Wilson. They've taken eight in a row.

Atlanta, Ga.—George Gill, young Detroit righthander, has set himself a goal of 18 victories this season.

Lynchburg, Va.—Deacon Bill McKechie appears ready to name Lee Grissom and Willard Hershberger as his battery in the opener with the Chicago Cubs in Cincinnati Tuesday. Grissom is believed to have won the nod with his work against the Red Sox Sunday.

HILLTOP COACH PRESIDENT OF COACHES GROUP

Popular Marquette Mentor Honored By Colleagues

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13—Well-liked by his athletes, by the staff, by students, faculty and alumni ever since his arrival on the local scene, Coach William S. (Bill) Chandler of the Marquette university basketball team found his popularity being placed on a coast-to-coast basis recently when he was chosen by his fellows as president of the National Basketball Coaches association.

The selection of the dimpled Hilltop cage tutor for the national office immensely pleased his horde of admirers here, but did not surprise them. They have long known that in Bill Chandler they have one of the basketball geniuses of the country.

A native of Chicago and graduate of Robert Waller High School there, Chandler became an all-western center under Dr. Walter Meanwell and Guy Lowman at Wisconsin. He finished at the Badger school just 20 years ago, and joined the navy. He started on the wartime basketball powerhouse at Great Lakes Naval Training school.

Chandler began his coaching career at River Falls (Wis.) State Teachers college, from where he moved to Iowa State college. He joined the Marquette staff in the fall of 1930 and in his eight years at the local school has elevated the cage sport to new heights of success and popularity.

Playing stiff schedules by choice and lacking the abundance of material that marked most opposing squads, Chandler's Marquette quintets have won 91 games and lost 54 for a 62.8 average, and have scored 4,407 points to 3,937. Among their victims have been Stanford, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio State, Minnesota, Northwestern, Chicago, Nebraska, Creighton, Michigan State, Iowa and others. on Main street. For over 55 years he has been an auctioneer of note. Probably no other man in Lee county is more widely known throughout Lee and Ogle county than Mr. Kelley. His services were called for at many a farm sale. He has lived a long and eventful life, which has never been one of ease. As a boy he knew some of the realities of the Civil War and learned then of the cruelties of war. Always of a jovial nature, quick of wit, and never one to complain whatever lot might befall him, he has lived so long. It surely is a source of satisfaction to look back over a long well spent life. To think of the earlier days and the good times and friends, to have lived from the covered wagon days of tallow candles, and homespun clothes, on up through the age of airplanes, automobiles and radios, electric lights, and many other of the modern conveniences of today. "Dad Kelley's" countless friends are wishing him many more birthday anniversaries.

THREE MILLION BATS

FLY OUT OF THE CARLSBAD CAVERNS EVERY NIGHT DURING THE SUMMER. (U.S. BIOLOGICAL SURVEY ESTIMATE)

THOMAS JEFFERSON
BORN APRIL 13, 1743, AND JOHN ADAMS, THE ONLY PRESIDENTS WHO SIGNED THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, DIED ON THE SAME DAY, JULY 4, 1826... THE ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR ACT.

NORTHERN LIGHTS
GLOWED SO VIVIDLY ON THE NIGHT OF JAN. 25, 1938, THAT NEWSPAPER OFFICES ALL OVER WESTERN EUROPE WERE FLOODED WITH CALLS OF "WHERE'S THE FIRE?"

HIBERNATION of the Carlsbad Cavern bats begins about Oct. 15 each year. Around May 1 they begin to fly out at dusk for insect food. By midsummer their flights are a spectacle not easily forgotten. It was the clouds of bats swarming above the caverns that led to their discovery.

Louise Giese, Executrix

Deceased.

Since the annual banquet of the Dutch Treat Club in New York the other day, friends of General Hugh Johnson are inquiring solicitously about his health. The tough-talking ex-NRA boss had a most unusual accident.

He became ill at a post-banquet party, and a friend sent for some ammonia capsules. He handed Johnson to open and smell in order to clear his head.

But to the friend's speechless amazement and before he could stop him, Johnson popped the capsule, made of glass, into his mouth and swallowed it.

Note—Since then Johnson has been touring and making speeches, showing no ill effects.

Shortly afterward, Representative
Maury Maverick of Texas, scrappy leader of the liberal bloc, obtained the floor and launched into a vigorous defense of the bill.
Byrd, who had led the Senate fight against the bill, listened disapprovingly.

Finally he could stand it no longer. "That's Maverick of Texas," he told his guests. "Doesn't he

61 CANDIDATES NOT BOTHERED BY OPPOSITION

Need Not Campaign Until November Election

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—When the primary polls closed yesterday 19 Democrats and 42 Republicans in Illinois were spared the anxiety of waiting for ballots to be counted. With no opposition, they won congressional, legislative and state committee honors without the necessity of campaigning.

Ten Republicans and nine Democrats who will seek election as congressmen in November were among those nominated automatically. By districts, they were:

8th, Rep.—Mrs. Rena E. Pikel, Chicago.

9th, Rep.—Charles S. Dewey, Chicago, former assistant treasury secretary.

12th, Dem.—State Rep. Edward C. Hunter, Rockford.

13th, Dem.—Theodore A. Secker, Freeport; 13th, Rep.—Congressman Leo E. Allen, Galena.

14th, Dem.—Congressman Chester Thompson, Rock Island; 14th, Rep.—Anton J. Johnson, Macomb.

16th, Dem.—James C. Dillon, Peoria; 16th, Rep.—Congressman Everett M. Dirksen, Pekin.

Uncontested Primary

For three candidates, the uncontested primary is to be followed by uncontested election in November. They got nominations to the state house of representatives in districts where only three men were nominated by the two parties, making nomination equivalent to election unless unexpected third party or independent opposition should arise.

The three representatives who considered themselves elected, all incumbents, were:

17th Dist., Rep.—Peter C. Grant, Chicago.

29th, Rep.—Robert M. Woodward, Chicago.

38th Dist.—Representative Hugh W. Cross, Jerseyville, and William Robinson, Carlinville.

43rd—Representative James E. Davis, Galesburg, and Representative Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown.

46th—Representative S. O. Dale, Fairfield, and D. Archie Whitlock, Mt. Vernon.

48th—Representative Fred A. Reavill, Flat Rock, and Former Representative John R. Thompson, Bridgeport.

State Nominees

Approximately a third of the nominations to the state senate were not contested in the primary. Senators will be elected in November from 28 districts. The men who got nominations without fighting for them are:

1st Dist., Dem.—Michael P. Sheahan, Chicago.

9th, Rep.—Anthony F. Benkowski, Chicago.

15th, Rep.—Matthew J. Vogel, Chicago.

17th, Dem.—Michael Iarussi, Chicago; 17th, Rep.—Senator James B. Leonardo, Chicago.

21st, Rep.—James J. Cullin, Jr., Chicago.

28th, Rep.—Webster Borchers, Decatur.

33rd, Rep.—Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline.

35th, Rep.—Senator George C. Dixon, Dixon.

37th, Dem.—Benjamin Downs, Woodhull; 37th, Rep.—Thomas P. Gunning, Princeton.

43rd, Rep.—Clinton L. Ewing, Douglas.

45th, Dem.—O. B. Thompson, Springfield; 45th, Rep.—Senator Earl B. Searcy, Springfield.

47th, Dem.—Senator James O. Monroe, Collinsville.

51st, Dem.—Former Representative John D. Upchurch, Eldorado; 51st, Rep.—Former Senator Charles H. Thompson, Harrisburg.

Nine Republicans and three Democrats were elected without contests to the state central committee. Each party elects its state committeemen at the primary. The uncontested winners were:

Democrats—1st Dist., John J. Coughlin, Chicago; 16th, Charles V. O'Hern, Peoria; 18th, Horman Bennett, Marshall, all incumbents.

Republicans—6th Dist., Chairman John F. Tyrrell, Chicago; 13th, Ben L. Berve, Rochelle; 14th, Ben T. Reidy, Rock Island; 15th, Roy E. Larson, Galesburg; 17th, William C. Radcliff, Bloomington; 18th, Robert R. Bookwalter, Danville; 22nd, R. R. (Bob) Thomas, East St. Louis; 23rd, Frank G. Thompson, Mt. Vernon; 24th, John W. Spence, Fairfield. All except Berve and Reidy are incumbents.

Every hair on the human or animal body has a muscle. This is shown in the action of the hairs in fright. The cat, through muscular action, raises the hairs on its back when angry or excited.

Brain Twizzlers

By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

The winter caretaker of a hunting lodge in the far north found it necessary to make an occasional trip to the nearest supply store which was nearly a day's trip away. On these trips he carried a rifle and food in preparation for unforeseen circumstances which might arise.

On one trip the caretaker got half-way to the supply store when he was approached by a pack of twelve wolves which looked very hungry and ready to attack. As he loaded his rifle he discovered to his dismay that he had only two cartridges. As the wolves approached he shot the leader and the other eleven
